While most organisations are now starting to realise the impact of data theft by employees, Dtex recognised this vulnerability long before the issue surfaced. The initial development behind SystemSkan technology commenced in 1998, in Adelaide, South Australia. Following this, the Dtex Systems Group was formed in January 2000 and officially launched its 'SystemSkan' technology in early 2004.

Dtex is now a strong multinational organisation with regional offices in Malaysia, Australia, Hong Kong and Indonesia. Mohan has recently relocated to the United Kingdom where Dtex will spearhead into the European market.
